Apps for Therapy for Children with Disabilities

Join us in our free listening and sharing session

4:30pm, 26th November 2025, Australian Daylight Savings Time

This interactive AusACPDM Listening and Sharing session will be about:

A series of studies exploring the effectiveness of mobile health technology on adherence, goal attainment, performance and engagement with home programs. A trial of commercially-available platform and the development and feasibility of a gamified therapy prescription app for children with cerebral palsy and other neurodisabilities are highlighted, with opportunities to explore the role of gamification and behavioural science in intervention design.

This session will be of interest to clinicians, researchers, students and people with lived experience.

Presenters include: Dr Rowan Johnson, Manager Kids Rehab WA
Perth Children's Hospital

The session will be facilitated by: Dr Sian Williams, Senior Lecturer
Curtin University
